CITY, SUBURBAN VOTE HEAVY

48 Million American Votes Expected To Be Cast Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—An estimated 48 million Americans cast ballots today in voting which may produce some spectacular over-turns in governorships — notably in New York and California — as well as upheavals in Senate and House contests.

Democrats aimed at a record in Senate gains to eclipse the 12-seat gain they made in 1952.

Republicans, ducking a barrage of contrary predictions, still talked hopefully of a last-hour rescue by the voters from what looked like a possibly devastating string of congressional defeats stretching from coast to coast.

Final soundings of grass root opinion appeared to point to Democratic gains of from 8 to 12 Senate seats, including that wrested from GOP Sen. Frederick G. Payne by Gov. Edmund S. Muskie in Maine's September election. This did not take into account Alaska's two seats, to be filled Nov. 25.

Democrats now outnumber Senate Republicans 49-47. With Muskie's vote they need only to hold their own in today's contests to have the required 50 majority after Alaska adds its two.

Test readings from around the country showed the Democrats might pick up from 17 to 40 House seats and possibly more. But if the Democratic rocket went only that high, it would fall far short of the 97 seats the party took from the Republicans in 1952. Democrats now outnumber House Republicans 235-209. A majority in the next Congress, with a new seat for Alaska, will be 219.

In hotly contested governor's races, Democrats were expected to eke out a net gain of from one to three in what might become some spectacular trading of state-house control by the two parties. Democratic governors now outnumber Republicans 29-19.

Here Are Key Election Areas To Watch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
If you're looking for a possible nationwide trend tonight, watch the returns from key election contests in certain early reporting states.

For example, keep an eye on these Senate contests (all seats now Republican, with Democrats given a chance to win):

Connecticut (polls close 7 p.m. EST), New York (7 p.m.), Pennsylvania (8 p.m.), and West Virginia, two seats (7:30 p.m.). Races in Maryland (7 p.m.) and New Jersey (8 p.m.) are rated tossups by the experts.

Other Senate contests in which Democrats could score overruns are in Arizona, California, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota and Nevada.

Two Eastern governorships that could change hands politically are New York and Maryland. Signs indicate New York might go Republican, Maryland Democratic. Ohio also could switch to the Democrats as well as California, particularly the latter, where governorship races running closer than usual.

Party experts say early trends might be noted in House races in the Connecticut 1st and 3rd districts, Delaware's lone contest, Indiana 11th, Kentucky 3rd, New Jersey 1st, and Pennsylvania 6th — all now Republican.

McComb Market Chief Disappears

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—The manager of a McComb supermarket, who reported a $378 robbery at the store early Monday, has disappeared, the Hancock County sheriff's office reported today.

Authorities said Robert Sterling, 34, manager of the Hub Supermarket at McComb, 15 miles west of Findlay, has not been seen since 2 p.m. Monday and that efforts are being made to trace him.

Sterling told deputies an unidentified man staged a holdup at the store and locked him in a cooler. The manager did not report for work in the afternoon and did not attend a store managers' session Monday night, officers said.

Nationalists Deny Use of Poison Gas

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Communist China today accused the Nationalist garrison on Quemoy of firing poison gas at the Chinese mainland.

The Nationalists denied their forces were using gas and in turn accused the Communists of laying the propaganda groundwork to use poison gas themselves.

The Communists claimed the gas attack occurred during Monday's blazing artillery duel during which the Reds pounded Quemoy and its smaller neighbors with 39,162 shells in 18 hours. The firing subsided at midnight and the Quemoy area was reported quiet today — an even-numbered day of the month on which the Communists are pledged not to attack landing areas.

Peiping radio claimed 14 Communist troops were "affected" by the alleged gas attack and said: "Should the Kuomintang troops dare to continue to use poison gas shells, our troops will reply with severe punitive action."

Quoting a spokesman of the Red Defense Ministry, the broadcast said: "The Chinese People's Liberation Army expressed the greatest anger over this crime of the United States and of the Kuomintang (Nationalist) troops."

The broadcast in effect accused the United States of cooperating in the alleged gas attack, declaring that it had come after the meeting of Secretary of State Dulles with President Chiang Kai-shek and after "the supply of large amounts of ammunition by the United States to the Chiang troops."

Rear Adm. Liu Hsiang-tu, chief Nationalist Defense Ministry spokesman, declared, "This claim is absolutely groundless."

"We have no such inhumane weapons in hand and the Americans have not given us such weapons," he said. "We have no intention to use such weapons in any further stage of the struggle of our people."

But he added that "we'll take other measures if the Communists resort to using poison gas." He said the Peiping warning is considered "a very serious indication that the enemy may be paving the way for adopting such inhumane weapons."

California's feuding Republicans seemed headed for a defeat that would sweep Sen. William F. Knowland, the party's candidate for governor, and Gov. Goodwin J. Democratic State Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown was given long odds to beat Knowland. Knight was reported trailing Democratic Rep. Clair Engle in the senatorial race.

A loss of both the California governorship and the senatorial seat could set back the ambitions of Vice President Nixon to become the 1960 GOP presidential nominee. The ability of his home base of California to produce a majority for a Republican presidential candidate then would become suspect.

Nixon's political future also could be clouded by a new rival in Rockefeller, if the latter wins.

Twenty Republican Senate seats are at stake in the voting. The Democrats have 13 on the block, but are certain of holding on to those in Florida, Mississippi

Aguero Wins In Very Light Cuban Ballot

HAVANA (AP)—Former Premier Andres Rivero Aguero won election by a wide margin to succeed his political sponsor, President Fulgencio Batista, in complete returns showed today.

Hundreds of thousands of the nation's 2,870,000 eligible voters—perhaps as many as 60 per cent—stayed away from the polls. Apathy and fear were factors.

Rebel leader Fidel Castro had called for a boycott. With eight candidates killed during the campaigning, Castro threatened death to all other candidates and reprisals against Cubans who voted.

Government sources predicted, however, that final returns would show about 65 per cent had disregarded Castro's warnings and voted.

Election day bloodshed included a mistaken exchange of fire between troops and a police patrol car at Marianao, the national military headquarters. Soldiers shot at the police under the impression they were rebels. One man was killed.

Rivero Aguero is pledged to carry on the policies of Batista, who has dominated Cuban politics off and on for a quarter century. Batista's four-year presidential term ends next Feb. 24.

Daytonian Held In Brother's Death

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A junkyard operator whose brother has been indicted for manslaughter is being held for investigation in the fatal shooting of a third brother.

He is Ralph Woodgeard, 39. His brother, Orville, 38, was found dead Monday with three bullet wounds and a slit throat. Police said the two, who operated a junkyard south of here with two other brothers, apparently argued over money.

Norman Woodgeard, 28, another brother, is free on bond. He was indicted last week for first degree manslaughter in the July 26 fatal shooting of his wife, Jane, 26.

Rural Precinct Check Indicates 'Normal' Turnout

Annexation Issue Generates Interest In Union Township

A spot check at noon indicated that the vote in Tuesday's "off-year" election will be heavier than normal, especially in Washington C. H.

This bears out the earlier predictions that between 8,000 and 9,000 votes will be cast.

Reports from city precincts showed that the vote at noon was considerably ahead of that last year at the same time.

Rural and village precincts, however, were running about normal, except for the three in Union Township where the annexation issue has generated an extra interest.

ROY COIL at Chaffin, said about 110 votes had been cast by noon. He estimated this about 40 more than last year.

Donald Lange, presiding judge at Eber, said 107 voters had cast their votes by noon and the pace was steady.

Mrs. James McWilliams said the voting was "little above normal" at Wilson school. But it was not too heavy for the clerks to handle, she added.

At Octa, only 29 votes had been cast at noon. Normally the total vote runs over 100, the presiding judge said.

The vote by residents of Milledgeville precinct was described as "good" but residents of the rural area surrounding the village were slow in coming in Rankin Burson, the presiding judge said. The vote at noon was 75, less than half of the number expected.

THERE WAS a momentary flurry of confusion in Octa precinct early Tuesday when a dog, politics and forebears uncertain, made off with the red flag marking the entrance to the polling place.

Fleet-footed precinct workers captured the fugitive and replaced the flag — the only one available on the premises.

The incident failed to disturb the even tenor of voting at Octa which

Break Seen In Lake Cowan Death Mystery

BULLETIN
WILMINGTON — The fire-blackened body of a woman found Saturday on the shore of Lake Cowan, near here, may be that of Martha Louise Bergen, 32, of 1870 Langdon Farm Rd. Cincinnati.

State Highway Patrol spokesman said one of the keys found near the body fits a suitcase discovered in the home of Mrs. Bergen who has been missing since Thursday.

A wedding ring, engagement ring and necklace found near the body also have been tentatively identified as the missing woman's by William H. Bergen, 30, of 1751 Bloomingdale, Cincinnati, believed to be the missing woman's husband, estranged since last April.

The Highway Patrol is hunting a 1950 Oldsmobile, owned by Mrs. Bergen, which also has disappeared.

There have been no arrests.

Heavy Ohio Voter Turnout Indicated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohioans today are going to the polls early and in record numbers for an off-year election. Perfect weather and a hot right-to-work issue spurred the balloting.

A spot check of some of the state's 12,960 polling places showed the heavy turnout—in some instances heavier than in the last presidential balloting.

In Columbus, many polling places reported early, heavy balloting and a few said the turnout was greater than in the last presidential voting.

Hamilton County (Cincinnati) Election Board members said "bright weather and issues involved indicate a big vote."

The same story came from almost every area of the state.

"Very heavy" voting was reported in Cleveland, Akron and Youngstown.

Precinct workers reported lines waiting when they opened the polls in Cleveland and Akron.

As many as 20 were waiting at some booths in Cleveland, where an election board officer predicts 85 per cent of registered voters will turn out. That would mean more than 650,000 voters. In the 1956 gubernatorial race in Cuyahoga County, 626,000 voted to set a record in that contest.

In Lucas County (Toledo) the heavy turnout when the polls opened indicated the county election board's prediction of 180,000 voters would be met easily. In many of the 633 polling places lines of voters were waiting when the doors opened. In the first hour of voting, citizens were reporting to polling places at the rate of one a minute. Harry G. Levy, the election board clerk, said voter interest seems to be matching that of presidential election years.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said seething sentiment over the proposed union shop ban might pop the lid on his earlier forecast of 3,450,000 votes.

Allies To Seek 10-Year-Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Allies will ask the Soviet Union to join in developing a vast military inspection system capable of blocking a surprise nuclear attack by any great power for perhaps 10 years.

Any system worked out now would have to be overhauled after a decade, it was explained, to take into account new weapons. The proposed system would mean an end to much secrecy in the Soviet Union, and officials are not optimistic.

The first round of talks, opening Monday in Geneva, Switzerland, is designed to be highly technical — to see whether Communists and Western experts can agree on the requirements of a workable inspection arrangement.

If the meeting makes progress, officials indicated, the United States is prepared to provide the Soviets with some now-secret information about radar and probably other devices which could be used in detecting military mobilization moves, missile and aircraft flights and the like.

The technical meeting may be followed — again depending on its success — by later political negotiations. The powers then would be confronted with specific questions of the location and area of inspection zones to begin putting the proposed system into operation.

Knowland, Harriman Getting Decision On Their White House Ambitions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any remaining White House ambitions of two of the nation's better known political figures reach the boost-or-break stage today as 32 states elect governors.

The two, Democrat Averell Harriman of New York and Republican William F. Knowland of California, have sought their parties' presidential nominations in past years. Both insist they are now seeking only to be governor.

In their current races, both are rated by pollsters and political observers as underdogs — Harriman considerably less so than Knowland.

Pope John XXIII Is Crowned in Colorful Rites

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII was crowned today in glittering medieval ceremonies investing him as the 262nd spiritual ruler of the Roman Catholic Church.

A mighty roar went up from some 200,000 persons in the great square of St. Peter's at the climatic moment in the coronation of the successor to Pope Pius XII. Nicola Cardinal Canali, aged pro-dean of the College of Cardinals, placed the beehive-shaped tiara of jewel-encrusted gold on the head of the shaggy-haired son from a little north Italian village.

There were more than four hours of impressive religious rites inside the vast basilica of St. Peter's.

The coronation took place on the same central balcony overlooking the square on which Pope John made his first appearance a week ago today after his election by the College of Cardinals.

All the pomp and ceremony of the Roman Catholic Church were mustered for the coronation rites. But there was humility, too, in the presence of the pontiff's family. Three brothers, a sister and numerous nephews and nieces were present, dressed in black peasant Sunday best. They watched in awe, weeping with emotion, as their kinsman, the former Angelo Giuseppe Cardinal Roncalli, went through the coronation ceremony.

Through it all the 76-year-old former patriarch of Venice remained serene, often smiling benignly. His voice throughout the long mass and his greetings to the Catholic hierarchy of the world remained clear and resonant.

The crowd began to roar as 84-year-old Cardinal Canali took the crown in his hands and prepared to place it on the pontiff's head. The pontiff adjusted the crown himself and looked solemnly out into the crowd.

The Pope rose slowly and chanted his "urbi et orbi" — the traditional blessing of the pontiff to the City of Rome and the world. The crowd remained silent throughout his recitation.

For the first time in history, millions of West Europeans witnessed the coronation of a pope through the agency of television.

The Pope slowly made the sign of the Cross in several directions at the end, and after the "amen," the crowd thundered wildly, shouting "Viva il Papa" — Long Live the Pope — over and over.

Mingling in the roar, the great campanone, the master bell of St. Peter's began to toll, and the lesser bells of Rome's churches took up the carol of triumph.

More than 50,000 persons had jammed the vast reaches of St. Peter's Basilica for the solemn Pontifical Mass and other religious rites which preceded the outdoor coronation.

Young Eggheads Now in Demand

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The American egghead appears to be coming into his own. Colleges are giving him the big rush once reserved for halfbacks.

State university officials meeting here welcomed that trend. "Those fellows from the Ivy League are beating the bushes everywhere for the best brains. If there is a really good student at a high school in these parts, you are sure to find someone from the Ivy League down here to recruit him," one Texas dean said.

Boy Admits Killing His School Mate

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—A 13-year-old boy has admitted, police said, the fatal shooting of his 12-year-old school playmate last Friday because he heckled him.

But investigators present at a lie detector test Monday night said the boy related that after shooting David Benson once in the body he took $5 from him and as the victim pleaded for his life, shot him in the head and watched as the body rolled into a ravine.

Sheriff Roy Doerflinger said the boy, Raleigh Robinette, admitted after three hours of questioning that he killed the Benson boy. Doerflinger quoted the boy as saying he was mad because Benson was heckling him.

The body of Benson, a Boy Scout and only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benson, was found Saturday morning in a ravine near Joliet.

Robinette was questioned after it was learned the Benson boy had gone to the Robinette home with Raleigh after leaving school where they were seventh grade classmates. A neighbor girl told deputies she saw David and Raleigh enter the woods Friday afternoon. Robinette is one of 14 children of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Robinette.

Hoover, Farley Meet At New York Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said as he voted today that he had no idea how the elections would turn out.

"You have to be young and vigorous if you would indulge in a political campaign," he commented. Hoover is 84.

Jame S. A. Farley, former national Democratic chairman, arrived at the same east 51st street voting place as the Republican ex-President was about to leave. The two men exchanged greetings and shook hands.

Dixie Group Booms Faubus For President

MILTON, Fla. (AP)—About 70 members of the Santa Rosa County Citizens Council Monday night signed a resolution urging the formation of a third party with Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus as leader.

The proposal declared that "the present Democratic party no longer represents or even countenances the philosophies of our Southern people and Paul Butler, chairman of the present Democratic party, has made this crystal clear in numerous public statements."

About a fourth of the 200 persons present indicated that they would attend a picnic scheduled for Crestview Saturday to sell Faubus-for-president flags. Faubus is scheduled to speak at the picnic.

State Sen. Newman C. Brackin of Crestview told the council that he agreed that "it is well to advance ideas as to ways and means to protect our segregated school system," but he said he would be opposed to a third party.

"I think we should stick together to solve this problem," Brackin said. "We should stay in the Democratic party and make it stronger."

At his home town of Huntsville, Ark., where he will vote today in the general election, Faubus said the Citizens Council resolution "wouldn't have any effect on my attitude."

The governor previously has insisted he is a loyal member of the Democratic party.

Fausus added: "The Democratic party has always been big enough to hold people with different attitudes."

Youths Confess Cannon-Loading Was Poor Idea

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"It was in our heads for two years—it should have stayed there."

That was the admission, police said, of two youths from suburban Whitehall who are being questioned in connection with the placing of a homemade bomb in one of the Civil War cannons on the State House lawn.

It was discovered Saturday night and disarmed. The youths—a 20-year-old Ohio State University student and a 16-year-old Whitehall High School student—face further questioning before police decide whether to place charges. Neither has been in trouble before, they said.

The two gave themselves up voluntarily, police said, and had called police anonymously Saturday night when their bomb—intended to make a lot of noise and smoke as a Halloween prank—failed to go off as scheduled.

ROY COIL at Chaffin, said about 110 votes had been cast by noon. He estimated this about 40 more than last year.

Donald Lange, presiding judge at Eber, said 107 voters had cast their votes by noon and the pace was steady.

Mrs. James McWilliams said the voting was "little above normal" at Wilson school. But it was not too heavy for the clerks to handle, she added.

At Octa, only 29 votes had been cast at noon. Normally the total vote runs over 100, the presiding judge said.

The vote by residents of Milledgeville precinct was described as "good" but residents of the rural area surrounding the village were slow in coming in Rankin Burson, the presiding judge said. The vote at noon was 75, less than half of the number expected.

THERE WAS a momentary flurry of confusion in Octa precinct early Tuesday when a dog, politics and forebears uncertain, made off with the red flag marking the entrance to the polling place.

Fleet-footed precinct workers captured the fugitive and replaced the flag—the only one available on the premises.

The incident failed to disturb the even tenor of voting at Octa which (Please Turn to Page Two)

Break Seen In Lake Cowan Death Mystery

BULL-LET-IN
WILMINGTON—The fire-blackened body of a woman found Saturday on the shore of Lake Cowan, near here, may be that of Martha Louise Bergen, 32, of 1870 Langdon Farm Rd. Cincinnati.

State Highway Patrol spokesman said one of the keys found near the body fits a suitcase discovered in the home of Mrs. Bergen who has been missing since Thursday.

A wedding ring, engagement ring and necklace found near the body also have been tentatively identified as the missing woman's by William H. Bergen, 30, of 1751 Bloomingdale, Cincinnati, believed to be the missing woman's husband, estranged since last April.

The Highway Patrol is hunting a 1950 Oldsmobile, owned by Mrs. Bergen, which also has disappeared.

There have been no arrests.

Heavy Ohio Voter Turnout Indicated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohioans today are going to the polls early and in record numbers for an off-year election. Perfect weather and a hot right-to-work issue spurred the balloting.

A spot check of some of the state's 12,960 polling places showed the heavy turnout—in some instances heavier than in the last presidential balloting.

In Columbus, many polling places reported early, heavy balloting and a few said the turnout was greater than in the last presidential voting.

Hamilton County (Cincinnati) Election Board members said "bright weather and issues involved indicate a big vote."

The same story came from almost every area of the state. "Very heavy" voting was reported in Cleveland, Akron and Youngstown.

Precinct workers reported lines waiting when they opened the polls in Cleveland and Akron.

As many as 20 were waiting at some booths in Cleveland, where an election board officer predicts 85 per cent of registered voters will turn out. That would mean more than 650,000 voters. In the 1956 gubernatorial race in Cuyahoga County, 626,000 voted to set a record in that contest.

In Lucas County (Toledo) the heavy turnout when the polls opened indicated the county election board's prediction of 180,000 voters would be met easily. In many of the 633 polling places lines of voters were waiting when the doors opened. In the first hour of voting, citizens were reporting to polling places at the rate of one a minute. Harry G. Levy, the election board clerk, said voter interest seems to be matching that of presidential election years.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said seething sentiment over the proposed union shop ban might pop the lid on his earlier forecast of 3,450,000 votes.

Allies To Seek 10-Year-Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Allies will ask the Soviet Union to join in developing a vast military inspection system capable of blocking a surprise nuclear attack by any great power for perhaps 10 years.

Any system worked out now would have to be overhauled after a decade, it was explained, to take into account new weapons.

The proposed system would mean an end to much secrecy in the Soviet Union, and officials are not optimistic.

The first round of talks opening Monday in Geneva, Switzerland, is designed to be highly technical—to see whether Communists and Western experts can agree on the requirements of a workable inspection arrangement.

If the meeting makes progress, officials indicated, the United States is prepared to provide the Soviets with some now-secret information about radar and probably other devices which could be used in detecting military mobilization moves, missile and aircraft flights and the like.

The technical meeting may be followed—again depending on its success—by later political negotiations. The powers then would be confronted with specific questions of the location and area of inspection zones to begin putting the proposed system into operation.

prospects for topping Ohio's non-presidential vote record of 2,987,424 set in 1950. Ohio's biggest vote was 3,761,322 in the presidential election two years ago. Polls close at 6:30 p.m. EST.

Pope John XXIII Is Crowned in Colorful Rites

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII was crowned today in glittering medieval ceremonies investing him as the 262nd spiritual ruler of the Roman Catholic Church.

A mighty roar went up from some 200,000 persons in the great square of St. Peter's at the climatic moment in the coronation of the successor to Pope Pius XII.

Nicola Cardinal Canali, aged pre-dean of the College of Cardinals, placed the beehive-shaped tiara of jewel-encrusted gold on the head of the shaggy-haired son from a little north Italian village.

There were more than four hours of impressive religious rites inside the vast basilica of St. Peter's.

The coronation took place on the same central balcony overlooking the square on which Pope John made his first appearance a week ago today after his election by the College of Cardinals.

All the pomp and ceremony of the Roman Catholic Church were mustered for the coronation rites. But there was humility, too, in the presence of the pontiff's family. Three brothers, a sister and numerous nephews and nieces were present, dressed in black peasant Sunday best. They watched in awe, weeping with emotion, as their kinsman, the former Angelo Giuseppe Cardinal Roncalli, went through the coronation ceremony.

Through it all the 76-year-old former patriarch of Venice remained serene, often smiling benignly. His voice throughout the long mass and his greetings to the Catholic hierarchy of the world remained clear and resonant.

The crowd began to roar as 84-year-old Cardinal Canali took the crown in his hands and prepared to place it on the pontiff's head. The pontiff adjusted the crown himself and looked solemnly out into the crowd.

The Pope rose slowly and chanted his "urbi et orbi"—the traditional blessing of the pontiff to the City of Rome and the world. The crowd remained silent throughout his recitation.

For the first time in history, millions of West Europeans witnessed the coronation of a pope through the agency of television.

The Pope slowly made the sign of the Cross in several directions at the end, and after the "amen," the crowd thundered wildly, shouting "Viva il Papa"—Long Live the Pope—over and over.

Mingling in the roar, the great campanone, the master bell of St. Peter's began to toll, and the lesser bells of Rome's churches took up the carol of triumph.

More than 50,000 persons had jammed the vast reaches of St. Peter's Basilica for the solemn Pontifical Mass and other religious rites which preceded the outdoor coronation.

Young Eggheads Now in Demand

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The American egghead appears to be coming into his own. Colleges are giving him the big rush once reserved for halfbacks.

State university officials meeting here welcomed that trend. "Those fellows from the Ivy League are beating the bushes everywhere for the best brains. If there is a really good student at a high school in these parts, you are sure to find someone from the Ivy League down here to recruit him," one Texas dean said.

Boy Admits Killing His School Mate

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—A 13-year-old boy has admitted, police said, the fatal shooting of his 12-year-old school playmate last Friday because he heckled him.

But investigators present at a lie detector test Monday night said the boy related that after shooting David Benson once in the body he took $8 from him and as the victim pleaded for his life, shot him in the head and watched as the body rolled into a ravine.

Sheriff Roy Doerflinger said the boy, Raleigh Robinette, admitted after three hours of questioning that he killed the Benson boy. Doerflinger quoted the boy as saying he was mad because Benson was heckling him.

The body of Benson, a Boy Scout and only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benson, was found Saturday morning in a ravine near Joliet.

Robinette was questioned after it was learned the Benson boy had gone to the Robinette home with Raleigh after leaving school where they were seventh grade classmates. A neighbor girl told deputies she saw David and Raleigh enter the woods Friday afternoon.

Robinette is one of 16 children of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Robinette.

Hoover, Farley Meet At New York Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said as he voted today that he had no idea how the elections would turn out.

"You have to be young and vigorous if you would indulge in a political campaign," he commented. Hoover is 84.

James A. Farley, former national Democratic chairman, arrived at the same 51st street voting place as the Republican ex-President was about to leave. The two men exchanged greetings and shook hands.

Dixie Group Booms Faubus For President

MILTON, Fla. (AP)—About 70 members of the Santa Rosa County Citizens Council Monday night signed a resolution urging the formation of a third party with Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus as leader.

The proposal declared that "the present Democratic party no longer represents or even countenances the philosophies of our Southern people and Paul Butler, chairman of the present Democratic party, has made this crystal clear in numerous public statements."

About a fourth of the 200 persons present indicated that they would attend a picnic scheduled for Crestview Saturday to sell Faubus-for-president flags. Faubus is scheduled to speak at the picnic.

State Sen. Newman C. Brackin of Crestview told the council that he agreed that "it is well to advance ideas as to ways and means to protect our segregated school system," but he said he would be opposed to a third party.

"I think we should stick together to solve this problem," Brackin said. "We should stay in the Democratic party and make it stronger."

At his home town of Huntsville, Ark., where he will vote today in the general election, Faubus said the Citizens Council resolution "wouldn't have any effect on my attitude."

The governor previously has insisted he is a loyal member of the Democratic party.

Faubus added: "The Democratic party has always been big enough to hold people with different attitudes."

Youths Confess Cannon-Loading Was Poor Idea

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"It was in our heads for two years—it should have stayed there."

That was the admission, police said, of two youths from suburban Whitehall who are being questioned in connection with the placing of a homemade bomb in one of the Civil War cannons on the State House lawn.

It was discovered Saturday night and disarmed. The youths—a 20-year-old Ohio State University student and a 16-year-old Whitehall High School student—face further questioning before police decide whether to place charges. Neither has been in trouble before, they said.

The two gave themselves up voluntarily, police said, and had called police anonymously Saturday night when their bomb—intended to make a lot of noise and smoke as a Halloween prank—failed to go off as scheduled.

Knowland, Harriman Getting Decision On Their White House Ambitions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any remaining White House ambitions of two of the nation's better known political figures reach the boost-or-break stage today as 32 states elect governors.

The two, Democrat Averell Harriman of New York and Republican William F. Knowland of California, have sought their parties' presidential nominations in past years. Both insist they are now seeking only to be governor.

In their current races, both are rated by pollsters and political observers as underdogs—Harriman considerably less so than Knowland.

In what has come to be dubbed the Battle of the Millionaires, Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller is rated a slight favorite to unseat Harriman.

In California, the Democrats say they are confident that their candidate, Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, will trounce Knowland. Polls support that view.

A victory for either Knowland or Harriman automatically would rank him a potent prospect as a presidential candidate. That also would be true of their opponents if they win.

Although this is his first bid for elective office, Rockefeller already is regarded—if he wins today—as a possible contender with Vice President Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination in 1960.

Another gubernatorial race with presidential overtones is in Michigan. Gov. G. Mennen Williams, seeking an unprecedented sixth term, was favored to defeat Republican Paul D. Bagwell. The extent of Williams' expected victory could affect his prospects in the 1960 Democratic National Convention.

Lively races also are in prospect in some other states electing governors today.

In addition to New York, the Republicans contend they have a good chance to oust Democrats from governorships in traditionally Republican Iowa and Kansas and from the onetime GOP stronghold of Oregon.

And the GOP has practically staked claim to little Rhode Island where Republican Christopher Del Sesto is trying again to unseat Democratic Gov. Dennis J. Roberts.

Del Sesto, after apparently winning two years ago, was edged out by Roberts in a bitter court fight over absentee ballots. The Republicans now are calling for Del Sesto's "re-election."

Another 1956 repeat occurs in Ohio. But this time Democrat (Please Turn to Page Twelve)

World Is Oyster to Girl Who Becomes Top Secretary

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Anywhere in the world, a good secretary is hard to find.

But when a girl qualifies as a top girl Friday, the world is her oyster. Employers fight for her services. Big business underwrites prizes and trips for her. She's wined, dined, interviewed and admired.

Living proof that it pays to be a good secretary are descriptive and efficient young ladies from six different countries, each of whom was named "Miss International Secretary" in her own country and won a week's trip to New York. They are:

Miss Zulema Sullivan of Argentina; Emilia Branco de Faro, of Brazil; Marisa Salerno of Venezuela; Patricia Todd of England; Jacqueline Wolf of France; and Liesbeth Haegle of Germany.

During their week's round of theaters, night clubs and official appearances here, two of the girls

Emilia, 22, and Liesbeth, 20, paused long enough to discuss their work.

Emilia earns $70 a month in Rio de Janeiro, about the average secretarial pay. Liesbeth makes between $80 and $90 a month in Stuttgart, also average. Both girls live at home.

Liesbeth works from 7 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. with half an hour for lunch and a 15-minute coffee break in the morning. Emilia works from 8:15 to 5:30 and has an hour and a quarter for lunch. Emilia's boss is a Russian—an executive of an American firm in Rio. She also has worked for an American and a Brazilian in the same firm. Says she:

"The American puts his feet on the desk, but he is jolly, and efficient. The Russian is very considerate, polite and also efficient. The Brazilian is nice, but all confused."

Both girls say the most important quality in a boss is politeness and consideration. They agree that the first qualification of a good secretary is willingness and enthusiasm in her work.

Handicaps Fail To Halt Traveler

LONDON (AP)—Alan Nichols, a 70-year-old veteran of World War I, set off for New York today on a round-the-world airline flight. He is blind, partly deaf, and he has no hands. He is traveling alone.

"I proved to myself years ago that it was possible to overcome physical handicaps," he said. "This journey may help to prove it to other people."

He was wounded in an explosion while serving as a bomb instructor in World War I. Since then he has worked with St. Dunstan's Homes for Blind Veterans. He saved the 400 pounds ($1,288) for the fare of his eight-day trip.

Ike Uses Helicopter To Get To His Poll

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower whisked in and out of a voting booth in 24 seconds today, capping his personal campaign for election of a Republican Congress.

The smiling President cast his ballot at 10 a. m., at the Barlow Fire Hall a few miles from his farm home. He was No. 86 to vote. Eisenhower flew from Washington by helicopter and was on the ground only 11 minutes. He traveled back to the White House immediately after voting.

Fliers Complete Week On Endurance Flight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Two fliers completed a week in the air Monday in their attempt to break the 50-day endurance record.

Hoping to extend their flight pattern to California cities and possibly Yuma, Ariz., Robert Timm and Chuck Kaskella summoned a California crop-duster to try air-to-air refueling of their light plane.

So far they've refueled by hoisting a hose on a hook from a truck speeding along a dry lake bed.

Fayette Vote Heavy

This year inherited a potential 200 former Jasper precinct electors whose polling place has been closed. Other former Jasper voters are balloting at Mill-croville.

IN LAST YEAR'S election when there were hot campaigns over school issues and the hospital bond issue proposal, the total vote in the city was around 2,275 and the rural precincts 2,950. These figures are based on hospital bond issue vote in the city and the Miami Trace school levy in the county.

The total vote in the county last year—also an "off year" election—was 5,071 on the hospital bond issue, one of the few countywide issues.

Consensus of election officials and precinct workers is that the heavy vote in the city this year can be attributed to the intensive campaign on the "right to lunch" issue, plus the governorship race and contest for state representative plus three tax levies of strictly citywide interest.

THE NOON CHECK in the city showed:

In Precinct D, First Ward, 103 votes had been cast. Ed Hidy a judge, said this was "heavier than normal."

Precinct C, Second Ward, 77 votes cast. Mrs. Laura Belle Mer-shon presiding judge said this was above normal and points out that the big votes in their precinct come late in the afternoon.

Precinct C, Third Ward, 72 votes cast. This was described by Mrs. Irene Thompson as "way ahead of normal." She also explained that most voters come in the late afternoon.

Precinct E, Fourth Ward, 57 votes cast. Mrs. Thomas Christopher, presiding judge, said this was above normal for an "off year" election when the total vote in some past elections had been as low as 70 and 80. She pointed out, however, that annexations to the east side of the city has increased the population and the number of voters in the precinct.

He's Voted Every Time Since Back in 1879

CREAL SPRINGS, Ill. (AP)—Uncle Jimmie White's record of voting in every election since 1879 remained intact today when he cast his ballot in the Creal Springs voting house.

White, 100-year-old retired farmer, said he marked the straight Democratic ticket. "I'm a radical Democrat," he remarked. "I've always voted that way."

White, who will be 101 Jan. 11, lives on a farm east of Marion, Ill., with a son.

Oil Drilling Rig Now near Sabina

After reaching a depth of 3,457 feet on the Peter Adams farm, Larick Rd., two miles north of Highland, the drillers for the Kewanee Oil Co. have abandoned the well which has been branded "a disappointment".

It was the fifth hole put down in this area in search of oil. Three of the other wells have been in Fayette County.

The outfit is now drilling a sixth well on the Gerald Bock farm, Polk Rd., 1 1/2 miles northwest of Sabina.

It is understood that the new well will not be a deep one, but of sufficient depth to make a test of the bearing strata oil which was encountered in wells sunk in Fayette County a half century and more ago.

Camp Fire Girls Busy Now with Annual Candy Sale

With "Trick or Treat" over for another year, The Camp Fire Girls and their younger sisters, the Blue Birds, will be scurrying about the city offering plenty of "treat", but no "trick", in their annual candy sale.

Proceeds from this annual event supplement funds that are provided by the Community Chest for overall Camp Fire program.

Mrs. Harford Hankin Jr., administrative secretary of the Paint Valley Council of Camp Fire, pointed out that over the past two years the number of girls served by the Council has nearly tripled. Camping facilities have been extended but still fall far short of the ambitions of the girls and their leaders, she declared.

This year, the girls are selling pound boxes of chocolates, suitable for personal enjoyment or as gifts and prizes.

Buying a box of candy from anyone of these representatives, be she a little Blue Bird or a business-like Camp Fire Girl is a "sweet" way of helping youth to help themselves to a better tomorrow, Mrs. Hankins said.

Rural Counties Note Rapid Changes

With its many suburbanized farms, Fayette County is one of those localities where changes are rapid and advantages are growing in its rural life.

Cities, large and small, even down to the size of Washington C. H. also have been changing and growing.

In some places cities are bursting through long-standing boundaries and are spreading rapidly over what was formerly agricultural land. Some of this is quite apparent in this community.

It is becoming more noticeable by the year that many of the old patterns of life on farms and in cities are being reshaped, in some cases to an almost revolutionary degree.

Today the farmers are few who live in rustic isolation, who endure rude inconveniences and loneliness because of separation from urban society and activities. Such rural residents of not many decades ago, have been fast disappearing from the American scene. It is to be noted, happily that Fayette County is keeping abreast of others in all this change.

Here and there some remain who dwell apart from the rest in remote sections but generally speaking the so-called "suburban fringe" and the well established farm communities are coming more and more into sharing common interests and desires as well as most of the same comforts with their urban neighbors.

Not only in Fayette County but in most other Ohio rural counties today our farmers are at least as much auto-minded as are people working in this or other cities. Many of them drive more and range farther than most of the people with city jobs.

Studies made by the state and national departments of agriculture show that farmers are among the nation's best customers for household appliances, TV sets furniture and, strangely enough, prepared and elaborately packaged ready-to-serve foods.

It no longer is considered remarkable that rural communities are electrified, that farm homes have the conveniences of running water, telephones and many other things that mostly were considered city advantages.

A few short years ago progress in "modernizing" farm centers was a matter of keen interest in Washington, D. C., where rural electrification projects were fostered and campaigns were initiated to assist farmers in raising their living standards. (A carryover from those days is the still-functioning Home Demonstration program, which is designed to help farm wives with housekeeping chores.) Today government surveys keep track of the number of food lockers, color television sets, backyard barbecues, and game rooms installed in farm homes.

Few regret these innovations. Nostalgia for the days when farmers on winter mornings had to break ice in bedroom washbasins, or to collect cordwood to heat their homes, is misplaced. Change is not always good. But not many country people miss the horse-drawn plow, the pre-dawn milking sessions, or the 18-hour day.

If we look over most of the farms in Fayette County, and similar counties in Ohio and elsewhere, it must be acknowledged that the lives of most farm families do not carry the dreary drudgery and disadvantages that many faced even as little as a quarter of a century ago.

What's the Use of the Law?

By George Sokolsky

The question must arise: What's the use of going through all kinds of hearings and trials to deport aliens if the aliens cannot be deported.

As of June 30, 1958, 2,645 warrants of deportation were outstanding. Of them, 1,637 are for aliens from Iron Curtain countries.

This means that a thief, a murderer, a subversive, any kind of alien that the United States wants to send back to the country from which he originally came, can remain in the United States indefinitely if such a country refuses to take him back.

Even those suspected of espionage cannot be deported if the country from which the individual is spying on us wants him to stay here. He might be put in prison for a period, but after that he can walk the streets in freedom, because our government having nowhere to send him is stuck with him.

The entire procedure is absurd and leads to nothing; it is costly offer. Either we let these devils stay here, free to do their harm to this country, or we ought to find a way to get rid of them.

We might put them on an island off Alaska where they could gaze upon the promised land over in Siberia. Those who engage in dope-pushing and cannot be deported might be put in concentration camps and kept there on short rations to think about their crimes.

Certainly, we do not need any of these people in United States. If we have to have bad eggs among us, let them be our own.

The question of deportation orders is a matter for Congress to decide. If a law cannot be enforced about anything, another law should be placed on the statute books or the whole matter should be dropped.

Let alien subversives, opium-pushers, spies roam our streets, ply their trades and go about their business. In a word, either enforce the law or repeal the law. As it is now, we can deport a British crook but not a Russian spy.

Why the discrimination?

The deportation law is designed to eliminate from the American population such alien persons as violate our laws. There is no reason why we should go to expense of feeding them and housing them in prisons when the simplest way of handling them is to send them back to where they came from. Let their own government look after them.

Lucky Luciano, for instance, was a nuisance in the United States. However, he has been sent back to Italy where the came from and while he is somewhat of a big shot there, he would apparently prefer to be here where he was the big

Stuttering Child Needs Attention

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

ALTHOUGH stutterers as a group apparently show no consistent neurotic behavior, we know that for many persons stuttering does lead to serious maladjustment.

Stuttering is a problem which should be treated promptly. Since it usually begins before the age of six, it is up to parents to arrange for treatment should their child develop this speech disorder.

Get Recommendation

Your doctor or pediatrician probably can recommend a good pathologist or clinic. That is a much more reliable way of finding help than merely looking up names in a phone book.

First job of the speech pathologist will be to try to diagnose the stage of the stuttering case and the specific characteristics of the symptom pattern. Knowledge of both are essential in planning adequate therapy.

Advise Parents

A speech expert's technique in coping with cases of primary stuttering will probably seem a bit odd to you. He will work more with you parents than with the child. He will advise you on how to manage the youngster and how to deal with his speech behavior. It is unlikely that he will want to deal directly with the child's speech.

In secondary stuttering, however, a more direct approach is generally employed. While guidance of the parents and teachers once again is of primary importance, the speech pathologist in these cases also works directly with the child.

Aware of Problem

The secondary stutterer is very much aware of his problem. That's why it usually is advisable to take him into the therapy program as a full-fledged partner. It's good for him to know that people are trying to help him overcome his difficulties.

The child must become emotionally adjusted to his stuttering. He must be taught to accept it, to examine it objectively and to work with it.

A two-pronged method of attack is used. Through a gradual process, secondary symptoms are modified and then eliminated. One by one these reactions are identified, discussed and then finally eliminated.

General Program

At the same time a general program is conducted aimed at developing the youngster's willingness to speak and stutter openly. He is taught to stop trying to avoid speaking difficult words and phrases and he is instilled with greater confidence. Eventually, he will probably develop a considerable amount of poise.

This treatment takes time, of course, but the quicker you begin, the better the results are likely to be.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

S. S.: I have a mole on my waist.

What treatment do you advise for this condition?

Answer: Moles should be removed only by a skin specialist. Certain types of moles should be left alone and the physician will determine whether or not removal is necessary in your case and what method of removal is best.

Fast Travel Is Confusing

NEW YORK—Or is it London or Houston?—(AP) — As planes get faster and the world gets smaller the experts ought now to do something for the mind of man as he's rushed between continents.

It is one thing to increase speed with jets and reduce vibration and noise and otherwise make the physical man comfortable. It is another thing to make the sudden mental transition between distant points comfortable.

After a lot of long-distance flying I find I need from three hours to two days to catch up with myself. It takes my numbed brain that long to figure out where it is.

You can fly me from Paris to New York between lunch and dinner but actually all you are delivering in New York is my body. My soul is still in Paris. What I need is a kind of mental decompression chamber to make the adjustment.

Which leads me to the fancy geographic name - dropping I intended here all along. In the last three weeks this has happened to me:

I flew from New York to Houston, from Houston to Miami, from Miami to New York. Then several days later I set out with a group of press pioneers on Pan American's inaugural jet flight to Paris.

We took off on a Monday about 7:30 p.m. and five hours later, when I normally would be watching the Jack Paar show on TV at home, I found myself in Santa Maria, in the Azores. There, for the first time, I discovered that one of the 107 passengers aboard was a guy I went to school with 20 years ago in Missouri.

Three hours later, when we should have been sleeping, we found ourselves in Paris where people were awakening. Wednesday I left Paris at 10 p.m. and one hour five minutes later arrived in London at 10:05 p.m. London time.

In London I met a guy I used to know in Hackensack, N. J., who was tired of commuting every day by bus from Hackensack to New York. So he got himself a job abroad and now is very British and wears a bowler and lives at No. 1 Lover's Walk in Fieley and commutes every day to downtown London by bus.

The next day I was back in Paris and the day after that, at 1 p.m., we took off for New York. In no time at all, we had passed over the English Channel, over Prestwick, Scotland, and were approaching Keflavik, Iceland, and the pilot was saying, "we'll have a slight hold over in Iceland because of traffic ahead of us." It must have been a big week for conventions in Iceland. Less than three hours later we were still drinking champagne and looking down at the timeless glaciers and endless ice cap of Greenland. Four drinks later we were coming into New York. how confusing. I found myself trying to tip the porter in New York with franc notes. Going through a bridge toll gate, I found myself handing my passport to the man in the booth. At home, at dinner, I made the horrible mistake of asking my wife — who had not made the trip to Europe—to pass the champagne and she said, rather testily, "what champagne, Buster?"

The next day, going to the office in Manhattan, I passed a friend, nodded casually, said, "Hi Ed," and kept on going until I suddenly realized this man lives in Miami not New York. After lunch I met a guy named Lloyd and gave him a big greeting and asked when he got in from his home in London. Lloyd didn't take to this kindly. It seems he is a native New Yorker and works in the building next to mine and I had simply met him on the trip to London.

Rural Counties Note Rapid Changes

With its many suburbanized farms, Fayette County is one of those localities where changes are rapid and advantages are growing in its rural life.

Cities, large and small, even down to the size of Washington C. H. also have been changing and growing.

In some places cities are bursting through long-standing boundaries and are spreading rapidly over what was formerly agricultural land. Some of this is quite apparent in this community.

It is becoming more noticeable by the year that many of the old patterns of life on farms and in cities are being reshaped, in some cases to an almost revolutionary degree.

Today the farmers are few who live in rustic isolation, who endure rude inconveniences and loneliness because of separation from urban society and activities. Such rural residents of not many decades ago, have been fast disappearing from the American scene. It is to be noted, happily that Fayette County is keeping abreast of others in all this change.

Here and there some remain who dwell apart from the rest in remote sections but generally speaking the so-called "suburban fringe" and the well established farm communities are coming more and more into sharing common interests and desires as well as most of the same comforts with their urban neighbors.

Not only in Fayette County but in most other Ohio rural counties today our farmers are at least as much auto-minded as are people working in this or other cities. Many of them drive more and range farther than most of the people with city jobs.

Studies made by the state and national departments of agriculture show that farmers are among the nation's best customers for household appliances, TV sets furniture and, strangely enough, prepared and elaborately packaged ready-to-serve foods.

It no longer is considered remarkable that rural communities are electrified, that farm homes have the conveniences of running water, telephones and many other things that mostly were considered city advantages.

What's the Use of the Law?

By George Sokolsky

The question must arise: What's the use of going through all kinds of hearings and trials to deport aliens if the aliens cannot be deported.

As of June 30, 1958, 2,645 warrants of deportation were outstanding. Of them, 1,637 are for aliens from Iron Curtain countries.

This means that a thief, a murderer, a subversive, any kind of alien that the United States wants to send back to the country from which he originally came, can remain in the United States indefinitely if such a country refuses to take him back.

Even those suspected of espionage cannot be deported if the country from which the individual is spying on us wants him to stay here. He might be put in prison for a period, but after that he can walk the streets in freedom, because our government having nowhere to send him is stuck with him.

The entire procedure is absurd and leads to nothing; it is costly offer. Either we let these devils stay here, free to do their harm to this country, or we ought to find a way to get rid of them.

We might put them on an island off Alaska where they could gaze upon the promised land over in Siberia. Those who engage in dope-pushing and cannot be deported might be put in concentration camps and kept there on short rations to think about their crimes.

Certainly, we do not need any of these people in United States. If we have to have bad eggs among us, let them be our own.

The question of deportation orders is a matter for Congress to decide. If a law cannot be enforced about anything, another law should be placed on the statute books or the whole matter should be dropped.

Let alien subversives, opium-pushers, spies roam our streets, ply their trades and go about their business. In a word, either enforce the law or repeal the law. As it is now, we can deport a British crook but not a Russian spy.

Why the discrimination?

The deportation law is designed to eliminate from the American population such alien persons as violate our laws. There is no reason why we should go to expense of feeding them and housing them in prisons when the simplest way of handling them is to send them back to where they came from. Let their own government look after them.

Lucky Luciano, for instance, was a nuisance in the United States. However, he has been sent back to Italy where he came from and while he is somewhat of a big shot there, he would apparently prefer to be here where he was the biggest shot in the so-called Mafia. It is logical that the people of New York should save themselves the cost of caring for Lucky Luciano who served no good purpose when he was in this country.

The Iron Curtain countries rarely accept a deportee. They do not want to admit that they know the guy. How many persons enter the United States from Canada or Mexico who should not enter, nobody can possibly know, and who can know where they came from?

Colonel Rudolf Abel, the convicted Russian spy, for instance, entered the United States from Canada illegally.

It ought to be axiomatic that United States illegally ought to be anyone who had ever entered the United States illegally ought to be deported whenever caught no matter how long he has been in the country. Otherwise, there should be no immigration law at all.

For why should honest men and women wait until their quotas are reached and go through all the immigration procedures if others are permitted to remain in the country once they can get into it by hook or crook and stay here because of their ingenuity and daring?

Decent folks are handicapped by our inability to handle the law adequately because we will not face the fact that a person who is ordered deported should be got out of the country.

When laws are not enforced, if the government, for political reasons, winks at the violation of the law, then respect for the law generally is lost. This was proved up to the hilt during prohibition.

It ought not to be that the immigration law and the deportation law become noble experiments in anarchy.

U. S. Drinkers Changing Their Liquor Habits

Volume on Decrease Plus Switch in Type Of Booze Preferred

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — America's changing drinking habits are giving the distillers some concern today.

For one thing, the total consumption is running behind last year's, which in turn was off from 1936, and well below the peak year of 1946.

For another, a smaller percentage of adult Americans touch the stuff today (55 per cent) than at the end of World War II (67 per cent). Temperance groups may be pleased that the biggest drop has been in the younger age groups.

Those who do imbibe have changed their tastes, posing sales problems for the nation's 90 registered distillers, 1,500 wholesale and 200,000 retail outlets.

And the locale has changed, too. Before the war 70 per cent of sales was to bars and restaurants. Now 70 per cent is to package stores, presumably for home consumption.

The industry is hoping for a pickup in sales during the approaching holiday season, the period when the greatest volume is traditionally sold. It will lure customers again with an array of gift decanters and fancy packaging. And this year it will have some advertising outlets open to it for the first time. It also counts on the business recovery putting consumers in a festive mood.

The big switch in tastes during the 1930's has been toward straight and bonded whisky at the expense of blends, and the rapid rise in vodka sales, which this year will take about eight per cent of the market.

Benjamin W. Corrado, director of market research for the National Distillers Products Co., says that for the first time since 1943 there will be a 50-50 split in whisky sales between blends and straight or bonded whisky.

Straights are 80 to 110 proof and must be aged at least two years. Bonded whisky must be aged a minimum of four years and bottled at 100 proof. Blends are a mixture of whisky and distilled spirits. During the war no whisky was produced and stocks on hand were pieced out by blending with distiller spirits.

Prewar consumption totalled 150 million gallons; in 1946 it was 238 million and now about 195 million. Despite the drop, Americans drink about 80 per cent of the world's whisky production.

The distribution now is domestic whisky 63 per cent, gin 11 per cent, vodka 8 per cent, Scotch 7 per cent, Canada 5 per cent, brandy and cordials 5 per cent, and rum 1 per cent.

TV Critic Believes 'Adult' Is Overworked by Industry

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — The most overworked word in television this season is "adult"—or "mature."

As defined in the dictionary, it means fully developed in character and powers. As banded about in television, it means absolutely nothing at all.

Every Western now advertises itself as adult, of course, and so does every adventure series and situation comedy.

One of the rare occasions this season when the management legitimately hung out the "For adults only" sign was when Omnibus offered its excellent examination of capital punishment. If any kids were watching on bootlegged sets in basement playrooms they might have acquired some exciting notions on how to as press 'em to death if you can't shoot 'em.

Alistaire Cooke's gentle admonition that capital punishment was pretty potent stuff for youngsters must have raised this question in many parental minds: When is it a good idea to invite the kids to watch the set?

Now this is not that tired old chestnut of an argument about things being bad for children on TV. It's true that straight children's program are extraordinarily few on network television these days considering the large percentage of the population under 16. But it's also true that nothing now issuing from the networks can be called downright morally harmful to those in their vulnerable years.

This widespread usage of the word adult on television has set me to wondering if it isn't time some programs sincerely tried to be childlike and boldly advertised themselves as such.

The best single program that has yet graced the home screen was an utterly childlike program: "Peter Pan."

Two fine children's tales have been adapted for television so far this season: "Little Women" and "Swiss Family Robinson." As stories, both treat themes of childlike innocence—one of life in a home, the other of life on an improbable tropical island. As television shows, both were failures. These shows failed to be top grade entertainment for a variety of reasons. But one flaw they shared in common was an obvious refusal to be totally childlike and so to appeal to the child that resides in everyone of all ages. You could almost hear the producers—or sponsors—saying, "Now we've got to eject some mature ingredients here for the older audience."

Ohio GOPster Is Target of Political Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—An investigation was started today into complaints that an Ohio Republican candidate for Congress Lawrence Burns, made a pre-election promise in violation of law.

Richard C. OHare, counsel for the House's special committee to investigate campaign expenditures wired Burns asking whether the allegations are true.

OHare told a reporter the reports he has are that Burns promised to retain the staff of the late Rep. J. Harry McGregor (R-Ohio) if he is elected.

Burns, of Coshocton, is running against Democrat Joseph Levering of Mount Vernon for McGregors House seat.

OHare said Burns has sworn in a campaign expenditures statement submitted to the House that he had made no pledge to anyone. He said the criminal code forbids any promises of this type.

Among the complainants, OHare said, is Levering. Another was said to be Col. Warfield Dorsey of the Mount Vernon Drums and File Corps.

OHare said he has some Burns campaign literature in which Burns says he will retain McGregors staff. The committee counsel said, however, he has formed no opinion in the matter.

The House clerk, Ralph Roberts, has received a complaint that one of McGregors aides, Robert Bruning of Coshocton, is devoting his entire attention to helping Burns in his campaign.

Congress passed the bill repealing laws to exclude Chinese from the United States in 1944.

U. S. Drinkers Changing Their Liquor Habits

Volume on Decrease Plus Switch in Type Of Booze Preferred

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — America's changing drinking habits are giving the distillers some concern today.

For one thing, the total consumption is running behind last year's, which in turn was off from 1956, and well below the peak year of 1946.

For another, a smaller percentage of adult Americans touch the stuff today (55 per cent) than at the end of World War II (67 per cent). Temperance groups may be pleased that the biggest drop has been in the younger age groups.

Those who do imbibe have changed their tastes, posing problems for the nation's 90 registered distillers, 1,500 wholesale and 200,000 retail outlets.

And the locale has changed, too. Before the war 70 per cent of sales was to bars and restaurants. Now 70 per cent is to package stores, presumably for home consumption.

The industry is hoping for a pickup in sales during the approaching holiday season, the period when the greatest volume is traditionally sold. It will lure customers again with an array of gift decanters and fancy packaging. And this year it will have some advertising outlets open to it for the first time. It also counts on the business recovery putting consumers in a festive mood.

The big switch in tastes during the 1950's has been toward straight and bonded whisky at the expense of blends, and the rapid rise in vodka sales, which this year will take about eight per cent of the market.

Benjamin W. Corrado, director of market research for the National Distillers Products Co., says that for the first time since 1943 there will be a 50-50 split in whiskey sales between blends and straight or bonded whisky.

Straights are 80 to 110 proof and must be aged at least two years. Bonded whisky must be aged a minimum of four years and bottled at 100 proof. Blends are a mixture of whisky and distilled spirits. During the war no whisky was produced and stocks on hand were pieced out by blending with distiller spirits.

Prewar consumption totalled 150 million gallons; in 1946 it was 238 million and now about 195 million. Despite the drop, Americans drink about 80 per cent of the world's whisky production.

The distribution now is domestic whisky 63 per cent, gin 11 per cent, vodka 8 per cent, Scotch 7 per cent, Canadiana, 5 per cent, brandy and cordials 5 per cent, and rum 1 per cent.

TV Critic Believes 'Adult' Is Overworked by Industry

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — The most overworked word in television this season is "adult"—or "mature."

As defined in the dictionary, it means fully developed in character and powers. As banded about in television, it means absolutely nothing at all.

Every Western now advertises itself as adult, of course, and so does every adventure series and situation comedy.

One of the rare occasions this season when the management legitimately hung out the "For adults only" sign was when Omnibus offered its excellent examination of capital punishment. If any kids were watching on bootlegged sets in basement playrooms they might have acquired some exciting notions on how to shoot 'em.

Alistaire Cooke's gentle admonition that capital punishment was pretty potent stuff for youngsters must have raised this question in many parental minds: When is it a good idea to invite the kids to watch the set?

Now this is not that tired old chestnut of an argument about things being bad for children on TV. It's true that straight children's program are extraordinarily few on network television these days considering the large percentage of the population under 16. But it's also true that nothing now issuing from the networks can be called downright morally harmful to those in their vulnerable years.

This widespread usage of the word adult on television has set me to wondering if it isn't time some programs sincerely tried to be childlike and boldly advertised themselves as such.

The best single program that has yet graced the home screen was an utterly childlike program: "Peter Pan."

Two fine children's tales have been adapted for television so far this season: "Little Women" and "Swiss Family Robinson." As stories, both treat themes of childlike innocence—one of life in a home, the other of life on an improbable tropical island. As television shows, both were failures.

These shows failed to be top grade entertainment for a variety of reasons. But one flaw they shared in common was an obvious refusal to be totally childlike and so to appeal to the child that resides in everyone of all ages. You could almost hear the producers—or sponsors—saying, "Now we've got to eject some mature ingredients here for the older audience."

White Oak MYF Plans Service

Plans for a Thanksgiving service to be held in the White Oak Grove Methodist Church were made when its Intermediate Methodist Youth Fellowship met in the church basement Sunday evening.

Ricky Smalley, devotional leader, for the evening asked each member to read a passage of Scripture. Hymns were sung under the leadership of Nina Roehm, the president.

Jeanie Burton closed this period with prayer. Ushers were Ronnie Haines and Jeanie Burton.

The president conducted the business session. Roll call was answered by members naming of their favorite sport.

Final plans were made to visit Green Acres Rest Home near Buena Vista on the third Wednesday of each month.

A skating party was planned by the group for the near future. Plans were made for celebrating the coming Christmas season.

After the business meeting, the group studied Bible questions. A recreational period and the serving of refreshments brought the evening to a close.

On Sunday, for the church's rally day, the youth presented a program following the Sunday School service. Taking part in it was David Vanoy, Sue Ellen Stephens, Tommy Purcell, the girls from the class of Mrs. Manford Hamilton.

Mrs. David Campbell and Janet Knedler.

The first appearance of the newly organized youth choir presented special numbers during the worship service.

PLANT HOLDERS

Old coffee cans and potato chip cans may be covered with some of the adhesive backed materials to make interesting plant containers. These come in attractive patterns that may fit in with any decor.

FEED THE KIDS

It's a good idea to have children's snacks ready for them when they come home from school. If sandwich, crackers, fruit or usual fare is at hand, they will not interrupt you in the event you are busy with other chores or entertaining guests.

HAMBURGER TIP

Chuck beef is popular for hamburgers but any of the following, after being ground may be used: round, flank, plate, brisket, shank or neck beef. Don't store ground meat for more than two days and always put it in the coldest part of your refrigerator.

Quick company dessert: add a little rum flavoring to vanilla pudding, made from a mix, and serve with lady fingers.

PLANT HOLDERS

Old coffee cans and potato chip cans may be covered with some of the adhesive backed materials to make interesting plant containers. These come in attractive patterns that may fit in with any decor.

FEED THE KIDS

It's a good idea to have children's snacks ready for them when they come home from school. If sandwich, crackers, fruit or usual fare is at hand, they will not interrupt you in the event you are busy with other chores or entertaining guests.

Chuck beef is popular for hamburgers but any of the following, after being ground may be used: round, flank, plate, brisket, shank or neck beef. Don't store ground meat for more than two days and always put it in the coldest part of your refrigerator.

Quick company dessert: add a little rum flavoring to vanilla pudding, made from a mix, and serve with lady fingers.

CRAIG'S

Bloomington Junior Class
Play Scheduled Friday Night

By ALICE CRAIG
BLOOMINGTON — The junior class play will be presented Friday at 8 p. m. in the auditorium. "Grandma's Best Years" depicts a hilarious evening complicated by a family black sheep and real-life gangsters, yet there is a moral if you care to delve beneath the ridiculous. It appears at times as if the situation is too far out of hand ever to revert to normal, but the ending is as calm and peaceful as expected.

Entertainment between acts will be furnished by Forrest Leach, a member of the junior class. He will play selections on the harmonica.

The case, in order of appearance, is as follows:

Mrs. Abbott, Anne Craig; Sadie, the maid, Ethel Lowe; Joyce Abbott, Kay Heiland; Marian Abbott, Cammy Carman; Dottie Morgan, Dorothy Cruse; Willie Abbott, Roy Birchfield; Shorty, Earl Welsh; Jim Meyerson, Mike Evans; Gram, Janice Owens; Patch, Butch Porter; Mabel, Esther Johnson; Bubbles, Betty Moberly; Mrs. Carlson, Audrey Massie; Miss Quelch, Harriett Hiles; Edwin Carlson, Eugene VanDyne; Cousin Oscar, Ed Seymore.

Tickets will be available at the door.

FTA GROUP MEETS
President Kay Heiland conducted the second meeting of the Future Teachers of America which was held Monday morning.

A list was passed around on which each member was to mark his study periods. Whenever a regular teacher is called out of class unexpectedly, an FTA member will substitute.

Mr. Biddle discussed the difference between trying to teach by the books and from actual experience.

Cammy Carman and Kay Heiland, as representatives from the club, told about the FTA conference held several weeks ago at Capital University. They were conducted on a tour of the campus after listening to talks about the teaching situation.

Vivian Harris and Phyllis Shirk were put in charge of the "piggy bank" into which anyone caught talking during the meeting without permission had to pay a small fine.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 10.

FRESHMEN SELL PECANS
The only planned money-making scheme of the freshman class is one into which they have launched enthusiastically. For the past two years selling pecans has netted each ninth grade considerable profit, and this year is proving no exception.

Mrs. Gilbert Biddle, freshman advisor, first thought of the idea when she was sponsoring the present junior class. The pecans are ordered from a company in Georgia.

TEACHER IS ILL
The entire school wishes to express its concern for Mrs. Dale Murray, the fourth grade teacher. She became suddenly ill Thursday noon and was admitted to Memorial Hospital. Mrs. John Cannon has been substituting. Our last information is that Mrs. Murray is improving.

SCIENCE STORY
Since we are living in the age of science, Mrs. Biddle asked the members of her eighth grade science class to write stories about a trip to the moon. Students were to read one outside source for reference, as well as to use their imaginations.

A story that was considered one of the best seems, upon reading, an unusual science-fiction tale. Its talented author is Chuck McCoy. Below is the complete story.

MOONBOUND
By CHUCK MCCOY
"Five minutes till touch-down". The sound echoes through the empty halls as I lie in my acceleration seat thinking about the 15 men which had gone before me in an attempt to reach the moon. This was to be the last attempt. If I failed there would never be another try for the moon. I remember standing before Volgrate, the power-mad scientist who had blackmailed his way into the position of dictator of the United States upon threat of using his atomic bombs on key cities of the United States. As I stood before him, I was told that the United States was running out of uranium. I was told that he wasn't satisfied with just the United States. He wanted the entire world. To do this he would need a lot of uranium which the United States was unable to supply. So he thought he could get it on the moon. That was the purpose of my ship and of the fifteen others.

"One minute to touch-down. Prepare for count-down."

This is it. At the point the other 15 crashed. Would I be the 16? "Sixteen - fifteen - fourteen - thirteen -"

I don't want to die. The robot record still drones on with the count-down.

"Five - four - three - two - one - Touch-down!"

There is a crunching sound and then silence. At first I'm puzzled. But then I realize this is victory! Man has reached the moon!

After that wild moment of victory I begin to think rationally again. I switch on the tele-viewer to see where I've landed. I see I did not land in a crater, but there are some big ones around me. So, after getting into my space-suit, I go outside. We have always been told that, even though it is 2,100 miles in diameter, it would look much smaller than earth. It isn't true.

About 1,500 yards from where I stand there's a crater at least 50 miles in diameter. My side of it has been flattened down so I can see actually fifty miles with the naked eye. I look for the earth and when I can't find it I realize I am not on the side of the moon never before seen by man. I decided to go into the ship and get some rest. I have to set an automatic alarm for an eight-hour rest because the moon days are just about twenty-nine and a half of our days. I drop off into a troubled dream about a big green space monster and Volgrate fighting over the moon.

When I awake I go outside again. I decide to analyze some rock. After getting the results from the Atomic Analyzing Machine I read the results. I go about five percent down the list when I come upon this: 15 percent humor vegetation. I decide to explore.

I get out my je-p. I can lift it because the gravity of the moon is one-sixth that of earth. It looks cumbersome with its air tanks hanging from its sides, but it needs them because there's no air on the moon for the internal combustion engine.

As I search I come upon an amazing find. I have discovered the ruins of two great civilizations long dead. Also I find, by accidentally switching on a geiger counter, that the rock is 115 per cent higher than any uranium ever found on the earth. By adding two and two together I think it was like this.

Once on the moon there were two great civilizations which had a lush and fertile land. But they grew jealous of one another and had an atomic war. Before they completely destroyed each other they turned their lovely world into a world barren, and lifeless. I prowl around the ruins for a couple of days and then I make a horrible discovery. The radiation from the uranium is slowly affecting me. I know I must get back to earth. There the space doctors can help me. But on my way to the ship

Financial Miracle Is Seen
As Lebanon Survives Revolt

BEIRUT (AP)—The fact that Lebanon's economy did not collapse completely during its five months of civil strife is virtually a financial miracle.

During the period of strikes and terrorism, economic activity was paralyzed in this normally prosperous little republic.

But the Lebanese pound remained one of the firmest currencies.

Premier Rashid Karami announced last week his government has accepted in principle an offer of U.S. financial aid to offset losses incurred during the trouble. The Lebanese are urgently seeking capital to repair the damage caused by the rebellion.

Exactly how much the summer's trouble cost is hard to measure in dollars and cents. Beirut bankers conservatively estimate the loss at 300 million Lebanese pounds—100 million dollars.

For a country with a population of a million and a quarter, such a loss is enormous.

Poor in natural resources, this country has achieved prosperity through banking, trade, and tourism. Its westernized, free-enterprise economy has built up an atmosphere of security and confidence which attracted capital from all over the world.

This international confidence in Lebanon was shaken by this summer's events, and it may take years to restore that confidence.

The crisis resulted in an unprecedented flight of capital. Bankers estimate that 250 million Lebanese pounds were taken out

Bloomington Junior Class Play Scheduled Friday Night

By ALICE CRAIG
BLOOMINGTON — The junior class play will be presented Friday at 8 p. m. in the auditorium. "Grandma's Best Years" depicts a hilarious evening complicated by a family black sheep and real-life gangsters, yet there is a moral if you care to delve beneath the ridiculous. It appears at times as if the situation is too far out of hand ever to revert to normal, but the ending is as calm and peaceful as expected.

Entertainment between acts will be furnished by Forrest Leach, a member of the junior class. He will play selections on the harmonica. The case, in order of appearance, is as follows:

Mrs. Abbott, Anne Craig; Sadie, the maid, Ethel Lowe; Joyce Abbott, Kay Heistand; Marian Abbott, Cammy Carman; Dottie Morgan, Dorothy Cruise; Willie Morgan, Roy Birchfield; Shorty, Earl Welsh; Jim Meyerson, Mike Evans; Gram, Janice Owens; Patch, Butch Porter; Mabel, Esther Johnson; Bubbles, Betty Moberly; Mrs. Carlson, Audrey Massie; Miss Quelch, Harriett Hiles; Edwin Carlson, Eugene VanDyne; Cousin Oscar, Ed Seymore.

Tickets will be available at the door.

FTA GROUP MEETS

President Kay Heistand conducted the second meeting of the Future Teachers of America which was held Monday morning.

A list was passed around on which each member was to mark his study periods. Whenever a regular teacher is called out of class unexpectedly, an FTA member will substitute.

Mr. Biddle discussed the difference between trying to teach by the books and from actual experience.

Cammy Carman and Kay Heistand, as representatives from the club, told about the FTA conference held several weeks ago at Capital University. They were conducted on a tour of the campus after listening to talks about the teaching situation.

Vivian Harris and Phyllis Shirkewy were put in charge of the "piggy bank" into which anyone caught talking during the meeting without permission has to pay a small fine.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 10.

FRESHMEN SELL PECANS

The only planned money-making scheme of the freshman class is one into which they have launched enthusiastically. For the past two years selling pecans has netted each ninth grade considerable profit, and this year is proving no exception.

Mrs. Gilbert Biddle, freshman advisor, first thought of the idea when she was sponsoring the present junior class. The pecans are ordered from a company in Georgia.

TEACHER IS ILL

The entire school wishes to express its concern for Mrs. Dale Murray, the fourth grade teacher. She became suddenly ill Thursday noon and was admitted to Memorial Hospital. Mrs. John Cannon has been substituting. Our last information is that Mrs. Murray is improving.

SCIENCE STORY

Since we are living in the age of science, Mrs. Biddle asked the members of her eighth grade science class to write stories about a trip to the moon. Students were to read one outside source for reference, as well as to use their imaginations.

A story that was considered one of the best seems, upon reading, an unusual science-fiction tale. Its talented author is Chuck McCoy. Below is the complete story.

MOONBOUND

"Five minutes till touch-down."
The sound echoes through the empty halls as I lie in my acceleration seat thinking about the 15 men which had gone before me in an attempt to reach the moon. This was to be the last attempt. If I failed there would never be another try for the moon. I remember standing before Volgrate, the power-mad scientist who had blackmailed his way into the position of dictator of the United States upon threat of using his atomic bombs on key cities of the United States. As I stood before him, I was told that the United States was running out of uranium. I was told that he wasn't satisfied with just the United States. He wanted the entire world. To do this he would need a lot of uranium which the United States was unable to supply. So he thought he could get it on the moon. That was the purpose of my ship and of the fifteen others.

"One minute to touch-down. Prepare for count-down."

"This is it. At the point the other 15 crashed. Would I be the 16? 'Sixteen - fifteen - fourteen - thirteen - ..."

I don't want to die. The robot record still drones on with the count-down.

"Five - four - three - two - one - Touch-down!"

There is a crunching sound and then silence. At first I'm puzzled. But then I realize this is victory! Man has reached the moon!

After that wild moment of victory I begin to think rationally again. I switch on the tele-viewer to see where I've landed. I see I did not land in a crater, but there are some big ones around me. So, after getting into my space-suit, I go outside. We have always been told that, even though it is 2,100 miles in diameter, it would look much smaller than earth. It isn't true. About 1,500 yards from where I stand there's a crater at least 50 miles in diameter. My side of it has been flattened down so I can see actually fifty miles with the naked eye. I look for the earth and when I can't find it I realize I am not on the side of the moon never before seen by man. I decided to go into the ship and get some rest. I have to set an automatic alarm for an eight-hour rest because the moon days are just about twenty-nine and a half of our days. I drop off into a troubled dream about a big green space monster and Volgrate fighting over the moon.

When I awake I go outside again. I decide to analyze some rock. After getting the results from the Atomic Analyzing Machine I read the results. I go about five percentages down the list when I come upon this: 15 percent humus vegetation. I decide to explore.

I get out my j.e.p. I can lift it because the gravity of the moon is one-sixth that of earth. It looks cumbersome with its air tank hanging from its sides, but it needs them because there's no air on the moon for the internal combustion engine.

As I search I come upon an amazing find. I have discovered the ruins of two great civilizations long dead. Also I find, by accidentally switching on a geiger counter, that the rock is 115 per cent higher than any uranium ever found on the earth. By adding two and two together I think it was like this. Once on the moon there were two great civilizations which had a lush and fertile land. But they grew jealous of one another and had an atomic war. Before they completely destroyed each other they turned their lovely world into a world barren and lifeless. I prowled around the ruins for a couple of days and then I make a horrible discovery. The radiation from the uranium is slowly affecting me. I know I must get back to earth. There the space doctors can help me. But on my way to the ship

Financial Miracle Is Seen As Lebanon Survives Revolt

BEIRUT (AP)—The fact that Lebanon's economy did not collapse completely during its five months of civil strife is virtually a financial miracle.

During the period of strikes and terrorism, economic activity was paralyzed in this normally prosperous little republic.

But the Lebanese pound remained one of the firmest currencies.

Premier Rashid Karami announced last week his government has accepted in principle an offer of U.S. financial aid to offset losses incurred during the trouble. The Lebanese are urgently seeking capital to repair the damage caused by the rebellion.

Exactly how much the summer's trouble cost is hard to measure in dollars and cents. Beirut bankers conservatively estimate the loss at 300 million Lebanese pounds—100 million dollars.

For a country with a population of a million and a quarter, such a loss is enormous.

Poor in natural resources, this country has achieved prosperity through banking, trade, and tourism. Its westernized, free-enterprise economy has built up an atmosphere of security and confidence which attracted capital from all over the world.

This international confidence in Lebanon was shaken by this summer's events, and it may take years to restore that confidence.

The crisis resulted in an unprecedented flight of capital. Bankers estimate that 250 million Lebanese pounds were taken out of Beirut banks and sent to safer places in Europe.

Tourist trade suffered a heavy blow. Hotels estimate that only five per cent of the normal number of tourists came in this summer.

Local businessmen face a severe problem in getting necessary capital to resume normal operations. Most local industries and businesses maintained their payrolls through the crisis. At the end of five months, their reserves of capital have been exhausted. Unless they can get easy credit, many will have to close down.

Local banks don't have enough capital to supply this credit. Neither does the government.

In Bonaire, Netherlands West Indies, there is a little fort built in the 18th Century as a defense against pirates. It is now a light-house.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

What a tremendous change there has been in corn harvesting during the last 25 years.

A quarter of a century ago, before corn pickers had come into general use, most of the corn was cut and placed in the shock.

Then the practice of husking from the stalk (by hand, of course) resulted in large amounts of corn being left on the stalk.

Later cattle and hogs were turned into the fields to eat the fodder and what corn was left.

However, as soon as corn pickers became general, the acreage of corn cut and placed in the shock decreased, until now very little corn is cut, and the largest field of shocked corn I have seen in the county this fall contains less than 10 acres.

Used to be that pumpkins were stored temporarily in corn shocks until they could be hauled in to provide food for cows and hogs, or to be made into pumpkin butter, or used for stewing and pies.

As winter arrived, corn shocks were a favorite haunt of rabbits which sought shelter from the snow and cold, but today I doubt if a single rabbit, will be found hiding in a corn shock in the county during the coming winter.

It used to be that wheat was sowed around corn shocks, and, as a result, much ground was entirely lost for crop growing. But today the stalks are cut to pieces, and wheat is sowed soon after the corn is harvested.

Corn pickers have taken a great deal of the backaches out of farming, for cutting corn and husking it by hand were always long, hard tasks for any farmer.

COVEYS OF QUAIL

Twice recently I have encountered coveys of quail, one containing 10 and the other 13, as they suddenly arose as if at a given signal and whirled rapidly to new cover.

In a number other instances I have seen two or more quail along the roadside, and sometimes they would not fly even though cars passed within two or three yards of them.

While there are still many predators (including man) which prey upon Bob White, I am glad to see a great many farmers carefully protect these wonderful friends of theirs who live almost exclusively on destructive insects during the insect season, and upon seeds and other foods in the winter time.

As all who are familiar with quail are aware, a covey roosts on the ground, usually in some fairly well protected spot, where they form a close circle with their heads outward. In this way they are rarely caught napping, for there is a lookout so to speak, at every angle.

I know of no other birds that roost in this fashion.

Bob White is still protected by law, and because of his aid to the farmer as an insect destroyer, most of us think he always should be.

BIG BUCK DEER SEEN

Floyd Henkleman, of near Bloomingburg, was somewhat surprised recently while picking corn opposite the C. G. Parrett farm, on the White Oak Rd., two miles northeast of Bloomingburg, to see a big buck deer in a meadow on the Parrett farm.

The deer, startled by the noise of the picker as it approached the field in which the deer was grazing, ran a short distance, stopped, looked, then walked across the field, finally disappearing behind a small eminence.

It is the first deer reported in Fayette County so far this fall, and apparently came from the state reservation in Scioto County. Nearly every year one or more deer are seen in Fayette County, and for the most part they are not as wild as they are in their native habitat.

TALLER AND TALLER

Recently I told you about a nine-foot castor bean grown by Carl

Plants, of Wilson St.

However, J. A. Brown, 527 E. Temple St., has a castor bean plant approximately 13 feet in height, with huge leaves and many clusters of pods.

This has been an exceptionally good year for castor beans, sometimes called mole beans, and they have responded to the liberal supply of moisture by attaining size which is unusual.

Brown also has several large dahlias, some of which attained a height of eight feet and have been blooming profusely. The blossoms are exceptionally large.

LSU, Rutgers Top Unbeaten Grid List

NEW YORK (AP)—Louisiana State and Rutgers were the lone major teams on the unbeaten, untied college football list today after weekend results had reduced the select group to 22.

LSU has won seven games and Rutgers six. Four teams—Kearney (Neb.), St. Benedict's (Kan.), Arizona State at Flagstaff and Northeastern (Okla.)—top the small college unbeaten with eight victories each.

Rochester remained unbeaten in six games but had their goal line crossed for the first time when they beat DePauw of Indiana 20-6.

Chinese Reds Quell

2 Moslem Uprisings

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Communists have put down two Moslem rebellions this year in northwest China.

Official Communist news reports received in Hong Kong said the revolts were sparked April 4 and June 1 by the top Chinese Moslem leader, Ma Chen Wu, vice chairman of the Chinese Islamic Assn. and a member of the National Committee of the Communist party.

October Mild In Bloomingburg

BLOOMINGBURG — Fall weather, with its biting winds and dipping temperatures, stayed away from Bloomingburg in October, leaving calm skies and summer warmth, Larry Huff, weather station operator, points out.

Winds, reaching a maximum of 7 mph on the 11th, left the way open for a pleasant Indian summer. The month's high, 85 degrees on the 7th added to the summer-like atmosphere.

But freezing temperatures, forecasting the shadow of winter, hit late in the month and during the last three days the thermometers hovered between 29 and 32 degrees, Huff said.

Clinton Takes Part In Major Maneuver

WILMINGTON — Selected crews from the 302D Troop Carrier Wing and certain permanent party personnel from Clinton County Air Force Base are participating in "Operation White Cloud."

"White Cloud" is one of the largest peacetime operations ever held jointly by the Army and Air Force involving Reservists. Approximately 17,700 military personnel are involved in the maneuver being held at Ft. Bragg, N. C. through Nov. 8.

The 303D Wing Commander, Col. Donald J. Campbell, Cincinnati, has been appointed to head all Reserve Forces.

Lt. Colonel Andrew E. Slough, Wilmington, director of operations at CCAFB, is acting as director of operations in the Provisional Air Division which is set up to coordinate this training maneuver.

Maj. James A. Geyer, Wilmington, director of training at CCAFB also is participating in the operation.

Reserve personnel piloting C-119s include Capt. L. L. Wilson of Washington C. H.

Sixth-six Reserve and 95 Regular Air Force crews will fly aircraft in the operation.

The number of married couples in the United States was almost 39 million in 1957, an increase of 37 per cent over the 1940 figure of 28.5 million.

Alliance Keeps Top Rating in Ohio Grid Poll

Warren, Youngstown, Canton Teams Dropped From Elite Listing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's sports writers balloted early this election day and again voted Alliances Aviators the No. 1 high school football team in the state.

Changes were terrific as 46 scribes participated in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Second place Warren Harding, eighth-place Canton Central and tenth-ranked Youngstown East dropped from the select list. Dayton Fairmont, Portsmouth and Toledo Central Catholic moved in.

Alliance paced Warren by only seven poll points a week ago, but the Black Panthers were stunned 16-6 by Lorain and surrendered the runnerup spot to unbeaten-untied Marion Harding. Marion eased in 34 points back of the leaders.

Canton Central was beaten 8-0 by Steubenville Central, but Youngstown East was a rousing 30-0 victor over Campbell Memorial. Despite the win, East slipped to twelfth place.

As Warren suffered its second setback, Marion, Cleveland Cathedral Latin and Massillon each moved up a notch to the second, third and fourth spots. Newark circled around Springfield into fifth, and Ellyria jumped from ninth to seventh, leaving the least three spots for the newcomers—each making its first appearance among the elite.

From here and there: Gil Smith's van Wert Cougars, who haven't been beaten in their last 45 games, trounced St. Marys 54-20 for their fifth straight Western Buckeye League title and their 12th since 1937.

Halfback Ed Ulmer of Brookfield (Trumbull County) may be the heir apparent to the state scoring crown. Going into this week's game against Hubbard he has 132 points—just four shy of Painesville Harvey's John Mummey, the 1957 champ, who may be out the rest of the way with injuries.

Warren's offense, slowed drastically since the 8-0 loss to Canton Central, almost came to a halt against Lorain. The losing Panthers were held to 29 yards rushing.

Mel Knowlton, Alliance mentor, was Paul Brown's first quarterback when the latter coached at Massillon in the early 1930s. As Mel won his 84th game, a new coaching record, by 40-0 over Youngstown North Friday, he received a congratulatory wire from his old teacher.

Mansfield's Don Tagedale ran 117 yards in 22 tries in the 20-14 win over Canton McKinley. Gallion hasn't been beaten in 19 games, and the 8-6 nod over Bucyrus gave the team its second straight Northern Ohio League title. Gary High of Millersburg scored on runs of 11, 70, 42 and 8 yards in the 37-6 win over Loudonville.

The weekend's No. 1 boy, however, probably was Halfback John Hise of Portsmouth's once-beaten Trojans. Johnny scored on runs of 45, 65, 46 and 20 yards, and took a 12-yard pass as Portsmouth rolled over Hamilton 43-12. He leads the Greater Ohio League scorers with 94 points.

Coach Sued For Roughing Of Student

CLEVELAND (AP)—The head football coach of suburban North Olmsted High School is defendant in a $50,000 damage suit filed by the father of a 16-year-old boy pupil who charges he was choked and beaten.

The boy testified that after he was disciplined on Feb. 17, 1956, he was literally so shaken up he fainted a half hour later and was taken to a hospital. There were bruises on his neck, it was testified.

Allan Cheney of Berea, the defendant, denied the boy collapsed or that he suffered any great bodily harm.

The defense argued that a teacher stands in the position of "loco parents" (in the place of parent) in dealing with a disobedient and insubordinate youngster.

At a special meeting of the North Olmsted School Board a few days after the incident, a resolution was passed which absolved Cheney of blame "after a thorough investigation" and also voiced support for "reasonable and just" disciplinary measures by teachers.

Tricky Tiger Offense To Be Faced by Lions In Final Game Friday

The WHS Lions will have to contend with an offense full of surprises when they tangle with Circleville's Tigers at Gardner Park here Friday night in their last game of the season.

That was one of the highlights of the scouting report brought back from the Circleville-Portsmouth game last Friday night by Gene Millard, the Lions' backfield coach.

Coach Millard said the Tigers operate basically from a T formation, but added that their operations have many variations, including an air attack.

Millard went over the scouting report with Head Coach Fred Domenico and Line Coach Marvin Merritt Sunday, the same day the coaching staff took two looks at the

Another Wrestling Show in Eagles Hall On Wednesday Night

The second of a series of wrestling shows planned for Washington C. H. is scheduled for the Eagles Hall at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Sponsored by the Al Haft sports promoters of Columbus, the card will feature a return "rude" match between Leon Graham, 223-pound Chillicothe, the champion, and Buddy Austin, 230-pound "Golden Gladiator" from San Francisco. These two met in the first of the series here last month.

Co-feature of the card will bring together two girls—Betty Hawkins, 140 pounds, of Ashland, Ky., and Tyla Payne, 140 pounds, of Chicago. They go for two out of three falls or the referee's decision.

Stacie Ford will be the third man in the ring.

Charles Osborne, secretary of the Eagles aerie, said he understood that the turnout for the first card here in months topped 200 and predicted that the crowd for Wednesday night's bouts will go over 300.

"There's a lot of interest in wrestling here," he commented.

Osborne also said he understood that a match between a couple of midgets would be on the third program of the series.

3,450,000 Votes Expected In Ohio Today

Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill, rematched for a second term against Democrat Michael V. DiSalle, former President Truman's price controller, embraced the "work" issue late in a slow-moving campaign.
O'Neill's all-out drive for the proposal brought confusion to political veterans who earlier professed to see a Democratic trend in nominally Republican Ohio.
Until advent of that overriding issue, Democrats appeared confident of loosening the 17-6 Republican advantage in Ohio's 23-member Congressional delegation and the GOP stronghold on elective statehouse offices.
The seething controversy crossed party, racial and religious lines, leaving professed seers to anticipate close margins in statewide races. The state Democratic platform opposed the "work" issue. The GOP state platform was neutral.
Republican U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker, running strong for a third six-year term, said he would vote for right-to-work but devoted his campaign mainly to a review of his record in Washington.
His Democratic opponent, former Congressman Stephen M. Young of Cleveland, attacked that record as "reactionary" and criticized Bricker for his "work" stand.
Democratic U. S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, Ohio's only five-term governor

Changes Made In City School Custodial Force

Board Transacts Routine Business At Regular Session

Custodial changes at Eastside and Cherry Hill elementary schools were approved when the Washington C. H. Board of Education met in regular session Monday night.

Eugene Reaster, custodian at Cherry Hill school has been transferred to Eastside to replace Ernest Beverly who retired Saturday because of ill health.

Merrill Butcher has been employed to take Reaster's place at Cherry Hill.

At the same time it was announced that Mrs. Reaster has been employed as matron at Eastside School. She will work from 3:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. each school day and from 7 a. m. until 11 a. m. on Saturday during those weeks when school is in session. The pay rate was established at $1.00 an hour.

THE BOARD HEARD correspondence from the Meriwether Nurseries, which prepared plans for landscaping at Belle Aire and Eastside schools and reaffirmed their willingness to accept donations of trees and shrubs from groups and individuals interested in helping beautify the grounds.

All inquiries should be addressed to Superintendent W. A. Smith rather than to the nursery in order to properly coordinate the program.

The board turned down with regret an offer of assistance by the Alard String Quartet at Wilmington College to start classes in stringed instruments in the Washington C. H. school system.

The offer was not accepted because the board feels that the budget will not permit the additional expense of instruction once the classes are in full swing.

BOARD MEMBERS receive a report from MacLaughlin and Keil, architects who designed the new buildings that new classrooms have been approved by the Electrical Inspection Bureau, Columbus, and that Robert Barnes of the State Auditor's office, has started the regular inspection of books and records. Barnes will be here until early December.

It was announced that option to purchase the former Eastside school site, Columbus Ave. and Willard St., was signed last Thursday by Harry Roth, Columbus realtor, who seeks to construct a super market on the grounds.

Roth, who took a 180-day option, assumes responsibility for having the property rezoned for commercial use.

Current bills totaling $41,885 were paid.

FOUR out of five board members indicated that they plan to attend sessions of the Ohio School Board Assn. conference in Columbus next week.

After the routine meeting, board members adjourned to the Field House to watch movies of the WHS-Franklin Heights football game.

Michael V. DiSalle is given an even or better chance of whipping his opponent of two years ago, Republican incumbent C. William O'Neill.

The Democrats also expect to recapture Maryland. Forecasters give a strong edge to Democrat J. Millard Tawes, who built up a political following during his many years as state controller. His Republican opponent is Rep. James P. S. Devereux, who commanded the Marine garrison at Wake Island at the outset of World War II.

A fairly close race is predicted in Massachusetts, where Democratic incumbent Foster Furcolo is challenged by Republican Charles Gibbons.

And the same thing is true in Arizona, where Democrat Robert Morrison and Republican Paul Fannin are seeking the seat vacated by Ernest W. McFarland, who is trying to return to the U.S. Senate.

Arizona's neighbor, New Mexico, offers a tossup between GOP incumbent Edwin L. Mechem and Democrat John Burroughs.

In Nevada, a late switch in the trend makes the Democratic challenger, Grant Sawyer, a hairline favorite over Republican Gov. Charles M. Russell.

The Democrats got off to an early start by retaining Maine in that state's Sept. 8 election. Democrat Clinton A. Clauson was elected governor to succeed Democrat Edmund S. Muskie, who was elected to the U.S. Senate.

The Democrats now control 29 of the nation's 48 statehouses. Of the seats at stake today, 19 are held by Democrats and 13 by Republicans.

TV 'Gremlin' Disrupts Ad Against RTW

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Bell Telephone Co. technicians are staying on the trail of an elusive electronic malfunction which disrupted the picture portion of a telecast Monday night and brought a flood of calls to newspapers and radio-television stations.

A half-hour program opposing the constitutional amendment to regulate union contracts was in progress when technical difficulty began. Called "Vote No and sponsored by "Citizens to Defeat State Issue Two, the program originated at WLW-TV here and went to 10 Ohio stations.

Seven minutes after it began at 8 p.m., the picture began to "tear" although the audio portion of the telecast remained satisfactory. The complete television picture was restored at 8:59, almost a half-hour after the "Vote No show left the air.

Newspapers and stations reported calls suggesting sabotage, but Ohio Bell engineers said it is unlikely since tampering with electronic equipment would probably completely knock out either audio or visual parts of a program, or both.

Nixon Ends His Tour of 49th State

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon ended a three-day tour of Alaska Monday with the strongest words of his campaign in support of Republican candidates in what will soon be the 49th state.

He emphasized the youth of former Gov. Mike Stepovich and said he would make "one of the greatest senators Alaska will ever have."

He described John Butrovich Jr. as a man who seeks the governorship with a background of experience, character and knowledge of Alaska problems.

It was election eve when Nixon and his family returned to the United States by chartered plane Monday night, but Alaskans won't vote until Nov. 25.

Stepovich, 39, ran 5,700 votes ahead of former Gov. Ernest Gruening, 71, in the August primary balloting for one of the two U.S. Senate seats open to Alaska next year. Many observers feel Gruening's well-organized campaign has reduced this margin and some rate the race a tossup.

Butrovich ran more than 12,000 votes behind Democrat William Egan in the primary.

All 81 U. N. Members To Study Arms

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union's return to the U.N. Disarmament Commission was assured today after approval of a compromise enlarging the group to include all 81 U.N. members for the next year.

After U.S. and Soviet agreement on the compromise, the U.N. Political Committee voted 78-0 Monday night to approve the omnibus commission. France and Cuba abstained, and Jordan was absent.

A plenary meeting of the Assembly was called for this afternoon to give final approval.

The outcome of the long dispute was a reverse for the West and a feather in the Soviet cap. It remained to be seen whether it would bring disarmament any closer.

The Soviets for the past year had boycotted the commission, which the last Assembly expanded from 12 to 25 members. The Soviets contended the commission makeup was weighted against them.

The United States and Britain had maintained that an 81-member commission would be too unwieldy for useful negotiations. They said it would become another propaganda forum.

With the Soviet Union adamant, holding out and smaller nations anxious for some break in the deadlock, the Western Allies finally agreed to try the enlargement for a year.

Police Hand Prison Trusty Traffic Ticket

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A convicted murderer, credited with preventing an escape a few months ago, is in the center of a legal mixup involving a ticket for speeding.

He is Edwin B. Jamrozky, sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary here May 4, 1940, from Lucas County for participating in a 22-cent robbery in which a service station attendant was killed.

For 10 years Jamrozky has been a trusty and allowed to perform errands outside penitentiary walls. When two prisoners bludgeoned a guard and tried to escape from a vehicle he was driving about a year ago, Jamrozky turned into a police parking lot and thwarted the attempt.

But police ticketed Jamrozky for speeding in a penitentiary station wagon July 15. He was told to pay a $25 fine or face trial.

Now authorities are trying to determine if either choice applies to Jamrozky. To pay the $25 fine would mean his working 500 hours at the prison pay rate of five cents an hour, and he is already serving a life sentence for first-degree murder and armed robbery.

The warden turned the problem over to city police who in turn asked the city attorney for help.

Changes Made In City School Custodial Force

Board Transacts Routine Business At Regular Session

Custodial changes at Eastside and Cherry Hill elementary schools were approved when the Washington C. H. Board of Education met in regular session Monday night.

Eugene Reaster, custodian at Cherry Hill school has been transferred to Eastside to replace Ernest Beverly who retired Saturday because of ill health.

Merrill Butcher has been employed to take Reaster's place at Cherry Hill.

At the same time it was announced that Mrs. Reaster has been employed as matron at Eastside School. She will work from 3:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. each school day and from 7 a. m. until 11 a. m. on Saturday during those weeks when school is in session. The pay rate was established at $1.00 an hour.

THE BOARD HEARD correspondence from the Meriwether Nurseries, which prepared plans for landscaping at Belle Aire and Eastside schools and reaffirmed their willingness to accept donations of trees and shrubs from groups and individuals interested in helping beautify the grounds.

All inquiries should be addressed to Superintendent W. A. Smith rather than to the nursery in order to properly coordinate the program.

The board turned down with regret an offer of assistance by the Alard String Quartet at Wilmington College to start classes in stringed instruments in the Washington C. H. school system.

The offer was not accepted because the board feels that the budget will not permit the additional expense of instruction once the classes are in full swing.

BOARD MEMBERS receive a report from McLaughlin and Keil, architects who designed the new buildings that new classrooms have been approved by the Electrical Inspection Bureau, Columbus, and that Robert Barnes of the State Auditor's office, has started the regular inspection of books and records. Barnes will be here until early December.

It was announced that option to purchase the former Eastside school site, Columbus Ave. and Willard St., was signed last Thursday by Harry Roth, Columbus realtor, who seeks to construct a super market on the grounds.

Roth, who took a 180-day option, assumes responsibility for having the property rezoned for commercial use.

Current bills totaling $41,885 were paid.

Four out of five board members indicated that they plan to attend sessions of the Ohio School Board Assn. conference in Columbus next week.

After the routine meeting, board members adjourned to the Field House to watch movies of the WHS-Franklin Heights football game.

Michael V. DiSalle is given an even or better chance of whipping his opponent of two years ago, Republican incumbent C. William O'Neill.

The Democrats also expect to recapture Maryland. Forecasters give a strong edge to Democrat J. Millard Tawes, who built up a political following during his many years as state controller. His Republican opponent is Rep. James P. S. Devereux, who commanded the Marine garrison at Wake Island at the outset of World War II.

A fairly close race is predicted in Massachusetts, where Democratic incumbent Foster Furcolo is challenged by Republican Charles Gibbons.

Summerfield Aide Denies Brown Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio) says Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield is growing tired of government service and is likely to be the next man to leave the Eisenhower cabinet.

Informed of Brown's remark, a Summerfield spokesman said the postmaster general has no intention of resigning.

In a newsletter to constituents Monday, Brown said:

"Don't be surprised if Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield is the next of the Eisenhower cabinet to resign. Summerfield has been in poor health and is said to be growing a bit tired of government."
